

Lynn Burnette: Loveland, Colorado

Rosebud Sioux

Oil on Tea Paper

Lynn was born on the Rosebud Reservation on a horse and cattle ranch and belongs to the Sicangu band of the Lakota. Lynn started painting about 16 years ago but started sketching at a very young age and has also worked as a rodeo cowboy. His grandfather had a great influence on his life and he paints many of the stories his grandfather told him. Hi grandfather taught him traditional dancing, about life and spirituality. Lynn Burnette has created his own unique style of painting using instant tea but also paints with oil and acrylic on canvas and does bronze sculptures.
